Brad supplied this hand from Monday's teams as one that showcases how a different style of bidding can lead to a radically different auction and defence, even if it ends up at the same final contract.

At the other table, Sam could see two likely tricks in his hand, the AC and a top Diamond. Therefore he lead the KD to set up his diamond trick while he still had a club entry.

- No good, as Donna could win the ace and had heaps of tricks.

While the 3S pre-empt may not be to everyone's liking (and certainly didn't work well on this board), it's becoming more and more common to pre-empt on especially weak hands when not-vulnerable—especially when dealer or in third seat.

- This is because you're more likely to get in the opponents' way in those seats (in the second seat you're just as likely to pre-empt your partner, so you want something a little more respectable).

At our table, Wyn judged not to open with a spade pre-empt, which let me open 1H and Kaye to introduce Diamonds. After Cam bid 2 spades (new suits by responder are forcing unless you have explicit agreements to the contrary), Wyn was able to support Diamonds.

Even though 2 spades would have been forcing if Wyn passed, Cam will get another bid when she raises diamonds. That means that I no longer need to bid, and choosing to bid shows some extras. Kaye jumped to 5D as a forward-sacrifice (trying to cut out our bidding space), and Cam reckoned that I'd need to be able to cover either the Diamond loser or the Club losers once I'd made my free bid, so he punted 6H.

All eyes were on Kaye now to find the killing lead.

Knowing that they had a big diamond fit, it's less likely that leading the KD will set up a diamond trick for their side, so Kaye lead the AC to Wyn's 6 and my 7.

- When choosing what card to follow with on the opening lead, Declarer should play the accurate card they'd play to encourage or discourage from their holding in the opponents methods.
- This serves to make the card their partner plays harder to head, because then there tend to be more extreme spots (honours) missing from the opener leader's perspective.

Having lead the AC, it's now like learning to cross the road - stop, look and listen:

- Look - All the values in dummy,
- Listen – Remember North's free – bid ...extra values...must have AD

So, there are no other chances to beat the slam than for Wyn to have started with a singleton club ... “time to cross the road”...Kaye closed her eyes and lead another club and Wyn was there for her with the ruff....Down 1

Now at this point I leaned forward and claimed, showing my hand and stating "I've got the rest, unless you've also got 7 spades".

- Despite being aware of the possibility, I was pretty unamused when I got informed that Wyn actually did have 7 spades;
- I then had to do a quick check that I wasn't going three off with another Club ruff.
- Thankfully that wasn't the case, so I limped away with -2 for the slam and a win on this board to our opponents with their defence.

RESPONSE FROM DAVID GREEN (apologies for not printing this in last week's newsletter)

At the other table, the auction was as follows:

Lydia	Donna	Sam	Kristen
3S(!)	4H	P	4NT
P	5S	P	6H

All Pass

At our table had the following auction:

Wyn	Brad	Kaye	Cam
Pass	1H	2D	2S
3D	3H	5D	6H

All Pass

Brad pointed out:

Pre-empting 3S with the West hand may indeed work against weaker opposition, but with a 4-c minor suit on the side it may do more damage to your side, especially, as here, where partner has a big fit with your second suit.

Assuming West passes and North bids 1H, East now has a chance to pre-empt the auction with a bid of 4NT showing the minors. East realises that it is unlikely that their side has any defence to a N-S contract, so it is an ideal time to put them on the spot. South will probably just bid 6H, but if he tries something tricky like bidding East's suit with a call of 5D, West will double, and on lead against 6H, East will see no future in a diamond lead.

On lead against 6H East should lead his CA and North is best to play his CK.

This is a similar play to one made in a Bermuda Bowl match in 1972 by NZ's Roy Kerr for which he won a Brilliancy Prize – creating a loser in a suit when you are fearful of a ruff if the suit is continued, but at the same time, having the opportunity to discard the loser(s) later if East discontinues the suit. East now has to wonder why West has played the C6 from 764, and seeing the QT9 on the table may decide to switch, hoping partner holds the DA which is possible if N has opened 1H on a long suit and few hcps. Also, playing the CK as North ensures East will know partner does not hold K6 of clubs.
